The RAVA 5 Access variable annuity is available only for certain 403(b) plans and the inherited nonqualified stretch annuity.

There are certain IRS restrictions on your right to take income from your 403(b) contract. In general, you may take an income distribution from your 403(b) only if you are at least age 59½ or if one of the following events occurs: severance of employment from the employer offering the 403(b) plan, death or disability. Limited funds are available on occurrence of financial hardship. Withdrawals made before age 59½ may be subject to a tax penalty. Not all of these options may be available to you – check with your 403(b) plan administrator for further information.

Variable annuities are insurance products that are complex long-term investment vehicles that are subject to market risk, including the potential loss of principal invested. Before you invest, be sure to ask your financial professional about the variable annuity's features, benefits, risks and fees, and whether the variable annuity is appropriate for you, based on your financial situation and objectives.

A variable annuity subaccount may have a name, portfolio manager, objectives, strategies and characteristics that are the same or substantially similar to those of a publicly traded retail mutual fund. Despite these similarities, the variable annuity subaccount is not the same as any publicly traded retail mutual fund. Each underlying fund that a subaccount invests has its own unique portfolio holdings, fees operating expenses and operating results. The results of each variable annuity fund may differ significantly from any publicly traded fund.

RiverSource cannot guarantee future financial results, and there is no assurance that an annuity or optional rider will keep up with inflation.

Surrenders are subject to income taxes and surrenders before age 59½ may incur an IRS 10% early withdrawal penalty.

The Income Guide program is not a guarantee of income nor is it intended to preserve your principal, and your contract may run out of money. The Income Guide program is not investment advice.

As part of the Income Guide program, we provide you with information regarding your annuity income, but we do not determine whether to make adjustments to your withdrawal amount or investment allocation. You need to decide what changes or adjustments may be right for you, or whether to seek assistance of a financial advisor in making any decisions, based on the information provided and your given needs and circumstances.

Portfolio Stabilizer and Portfolio Navigator

The Portfolio Stabilizer and Portfolio Navigator funds are investment options within variable annuity products offered by RiverSource Life Insurance Company and RiverSource Life Insurance Co. of New York (collectively, RiverSource Life). The funds are managed by Columbia Management Investment Advisers, LLC (Columbia Management), an affiliate of RiverSource Life. Columbia Management, RiverSource Life and their affiliates may receive revenue related to assets allocated to these funds. Please read the product and fund prospectuses carefully before investing.

There is no guarantee that the asset allocation funds will achieve their investment objectives, and you could lose money. The funds may also be unsuccessful in managing volatility. By investing in a combination of underlying funds (among other investments), the funds have exposure to the risks associated with many areas of the market. The market value of securities may fall or fail to rise, or fluctuate, sometimes rapidly or unpredictably. Foreign and emerging markets investing generally presents increased risk potential relative to US investments. There are risks associated with fixed income investments, including interest rate risk and the risk that the counterparty to the instrument may not perform or be unable to perform its obligations, including making payments. Investments in high-yield (junk) securities could expose the funds to a greater risk of loss of principal and income than an investment in higher quality securities. The use of derivatives introduces risks which are potentially greater than the risks of investing directly in the instruments underlying the derivatives. These transactions also subject the funds to counterparty risk; the risk that derivatives used to protect against an opposite position may offset losses, but may also offset gains; the risk that the instruments may be difficult to value; and the risk that it may not be possible to liquidate the instruments at an advantageous time or price. Investment in exchange-traded funds (ETFs) subjects these funds to the risks associated with the ETF's holdings. Fund investors bear both their proportionate share of the funds' expenses and similar expenses incurred through ownership of ETFs, as well as other underlying funds. For additional risk information, please read the fund's prospectus.

You should consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of the variable annuity and its underlying investment options carefully before investing.
